One Bread Crumb. One Dollar.

Laci,

I am trying to avoid embarrassing my children.

The rest of what I have should have everyone on that property in jail.

You didn't even bother to check if there was another case opened against me.

If my son and daughter cannot enjoy their Christmas presents before I go back to work Monday—the data dump is coming. Along with the evidence of Elizabeth's perjury in both cases. And your fraud.

Your carrier is confused because I don't want money.

Whatever you charged Elizabeth to do this to me is already going to get the law changed.

My children.

I don't care if I win the case and I don't want your money. THis is shifting to a legislative effort.

Laci,

Against my better judgment, I am extending the settlement offer to Monday, January 13, 2026 at 5:00 PM CST.

Here's why:

Elizabeth has finally re-registered for supervised visitation at the DRO. This means that instead of simply bringing the children to my home — where I bake my own bread and make my own pasta — my children will have to eat fast food. And my son's tooth will still be chipped.

Instead of being with their father, I will be sitting in a waiting room full of parents.

Parents who, statistically speaking, may have found themselves there under circumstances similar to mine.

Every hour I spend at the DRO is an hour I spend networking with potential plaintiffs, petition signers, and witnesses to systemic failure.

You have until Monday.

I can assure you what will be disclosed after the deadline passes will implore you to change your calculus on this promptly.

Act in good faith. End this. Let me be a father without an audience.

Or don't — and watch what happens when a room full of parents learns they're not alone.

P.S. — Given the additional time and resources expended, the pro bono requirement has increased from 40 hours to 80 hours. Details on the SAFE SAPCR Act sponsorship requirements:
